

led Truce Negotiators Charge Allied Plane Responsible For Death of Delegation Member

Munson, Korea (P)—Communist truce negotiators charged today a Allied plane killed a member of their delegation and accused the N. Command of treating prisoners of war in "barbarous medieval" fashion.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, top U. N. negotiator, called it "a vicious propaganda blast to widen the breach between us."

The Red charges were voiced by North Korean Gen. Nam Il at a full-dress session. He said an Allied plane strafed a Red truce convoy Monday. The Allies said they would investigate.

Nam spoke 31 minutes of the 35-minute session. Much of his talk was devoted to prisoners, the key issue blocking an armistice.

When Nam was finished Joy said:

"For 12 consecutive days we have met at your request. The only valid reason for holding these plenary sessions is to attempt to reach an armistice. Your side, however, continues to utilize these meetings solely as a device by which to put your vicious propaganda before the world."

"There is one fact that you are not willing to face or do not understand. The United Nations Command's compromise proposal is firm, final and irrevocable."

The key to that proposal is the U. N. insistence on voluntary repatriation, under which only 70,000 prisoners and civilian internees would go back to Red rule. There are 170,000 in the U. N. POW and internment camps.

Perseker Man Kills Four Persons on a Crowded City Bus

Cleveland (P)—An unemployed youth who said he "was just ad" grabbed a policeman's revolver and blazed away in a crowded bus here yesterday, killing four persons.

The youth, listed by police as Lawrence Goldsby, 20, killed the strolman, two women passengers who complained he molested them, and a man passenger.

One of the women, just before he shooting, had protested to the driver that Goldsby was ginging r hair with a cigarette.

When his weapon clicked empty, three men overpowered Goldsby and beat him savagely.

While the men pinned the slayer in the driver's seat and beat him, the 60 to 80 terrified bus passengers crouched behind seats, scrambled through windows, or rushed toward the closed doors.

MANUFACTURERS ASK CONTROLS BE DROPPED

Washington (P)—The National Association of Manufacturers, AM and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce today urged Congress to let price, wage and civilian materials controls die when the Defense Production Act runs out June 30.

Spokesmen for both organizations told the House Banking Committee in prepared testimony that the controls have been found to have little effect on economic stability.

Taft and Eisenhower Fight Tightens By Results in Rhode Island and Wyoming

By The Associated Press

The Taft-Eisenhower fight for Republican presidential nominating delegates, tightened up a little by results in Rhode Island and Wyoming, swings today to West Virginia.

The weather was fair there and a half-million ballots were expected in a primary. Features, besides hot nomination races for governor and Congress, were:

1. Election of 16-vote Republican and 20-vote Democratic delegations to the Chicago national convention in July.

2. A GOP popularity contest between Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, spiced by a movement to write-in votes—which cannot count legally—for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Taft backers, with the solid support of the state organization were intent on capturing all 16 Republican delegates. Eisenhower forces said they would consider a victory to elect even one Eisenhower delegate.

In the preferential poll, Taft looked like a shoo-in over Stassen. There was no Democratic preference vote. Candidates for the 16-vote delegation, except for one uppeation of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, kept silent as to which nominee-candidate they favored.

Officially, delegations of both parties will be uncommitted.

Conventions in Wyoming and Rhode Island yesterday revised the Associated Press tabulation of OP delegate strength to read: Taft 349, Eisenhower 300. Until then it had been: Taft 343, Eisenhower 290.

In Washington today, Taft told reporters he believes fewer than 10 delegates will remain uncommitted when the GOP convention opens July 7 in Chicago. However, Wesley Roberts, an Eisenhower adviser, said he believes there will be many more than 100 who could go either way.

Former Lustron Head Witness at Hearing

Washington (P)—Carl C. Strandlund, testifying at hearings on an out-McCarthy resolution, heatedly denied today that he ever bragged of having powerful friends within the administration and in Congress.

Strandlund, former head of the now-defunct Lustron Corp., told the Senate Elections subcommittee that there was nothing illegal about his payment of $10,000 to Sen. McCarthy R-Wis for an article on housing written in 1948.

The subcommittee opened hearings yesterday on a resolution introduced by Sen. Benton D-Conn. aimed at unseating the Wisconsin senator. McCarthy has asked the subcommittee to investigate Benton.

Butler Girl Admits Participating In Recent Bank Holdup

Pittsburgh (P)—Slouching low in a chair, a pretty auburn-haired 19-year-old Butler girl accused of bank robbery told a U. S. commissioner who had just fixed $5,000 bond for her:

"My folks won't help me pay. What can they do?"

Dorothy McCandless, charged with driving the getaway car which carried three men and $425.80 loot from the Brookville National Bank, showed her nervousness by biting her lip.

Previously a state police lieutenant quoted her as admitting she waited while three men, one of them her May friend, robbed the bank on May 6 using toy cap pistols. Bonds of $5,000 were set for four yesterday.

The teenager and her boy friend, Ralph Richardson, 23, of Butler, pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Homer D. Small. Richardson has a police record.

At the bond hearing Dorothy wore a yellow knitted sweater, blue jeans and sneakers. She pushed her hands deep into her pockets defiantly.

When U. S. Commissioner Edward A. Snodgrass asked her if she condoned the men's actions, she answered sharply with a sly smile coming over her face:

"Sure I do."

She had a ready answer for a newsman who asked:

"How did a nice girl like you get started in this business?"

Dorothy snorted: "Shove off, needle nose."

KOJE PRISON COMMANDER IS RELIEVED

Seoul, Korea (P)—Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson was removed today as commandant of Kojie Island — three days after he made a sharply criticized deal there with Red prisoners of war for the release of his predecessor.

The new shakeup in the Kojie command came less than 12 hours after it became known the Joint Chiefs of Staff demanded immediate and full clarification of circumstances leading to:

1. Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd's capture by his Kojie prisoners.

2. Colson's promised concessions to Communist POW leaders which won Dodd's release Saturday night.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet named Brig. Gen. Hayden L. Boatner, veteran front-line commander, to take over the turbulent 80,000-man prisoner camp.

Colson was reassigned to his former job as chief of staff of the 1st Corps in Korea.

Dodd, commandant of the island when Red prisoners captured him Wednesday, was reassigned to U. S. Eighth Army headquarters.

On Kojie, a 100-acre island, American tanks and combat infantrymen stood guard outside barbed wire compounds.

U. S. defense officials in Washington took exception to the wording of Colson's agreement with the Red POWs saying the wording gave several wrong impressions.

License Agreement for the Local Airport to be Sought; Milk Ordinance to be Revised

What could easily be construed as a move toward ultimate acquisition of the so-called old Mill Race property as a municipal parking facility was taken by Borough Council at its May meeting, Monday night, when it voted to have an ordinance drawn which would create a Parking Authority. With routine matters occupying most of Council's time, the other outstanding item of business was a unanimous decision in favor of taking over operation of the Municipal Airport, leased to an out-of-town individual for the past 10 months, and to negotiate immediately with the Civil Aeronautics and Pennsylvania Aeronautics Associations for a license agreement.

While Monday night's action did not definitely set up a Parking Authority, it indicated that Council is in favor of such a move and that an ordinance for its creation will be passed at the June 9 meeting. The vote did not come until after a lengthy discussion, pro and con, with Leon Laskaris, acting as president, pro tem in the absence of William E. Rice, indicating that he was very much in favor of a Parking Authority. Consideration of the move came after J. G. Smith, public safety committee chairman, had reported on a meeting of his committee with Chamber of Commerce representatives. Mr. Smith said that creation of such an authority does not mean that "we are intending to jump right in and buy a piece of property at this time" but that the Authority would be set up and in a position to act if and when the time came. While S. Knox Harper, borough solicitor, said the Borough has the power to make such a deal on its own, creation of a Parking Authority, as negotiated by a half dozen other municipalities in the state, obviates the necessity for increasing bonded indebtedness. The Parking Authority would finance purchase of such a property and operate it, much the same as the new Warren Borough School Authority will function.

Council's decision to operate the airport was stimulated by a desire to provide new storage space for borough equipment, and came after P. W. Yagge, chairman of the buildings and lands committee, reported his committee had been contacted by Charles Blackman of Blackman Nash, Inc., for a lease on the hanger building, primarily for storage purposes. During its investigation, the committee decided the borough itself badly needed the space, to relieve conditions at the Crescent street garage. Council voted to cancel the lease held by James Welton of Franklin, who tried to terminate this over a month ago, and to keep the airport open for general use, with an attendant quartered in the apartment there, but to use the garage part of the building for borough equipment storage and perhaps move the shop and mechanic there. It was brought out that some of the old buildings on the Crescent street site should be razed. Cutting of the grass at the field will require 160 hours of labor each year, with Parks Superintendent G. H. Reier reporting this could be cut down by purchase of a tractor for use in pulling the leaf collector, for plowing snow, and with a grass cutting attachment.

"Possibilities of Peace" Is the Timely Theme of Address Heard by Rotarians

Rapt attention was won by Rev. Raymond Kistler, president of Beaver College, former Warren Rotarian, and former pastor of the First Presbyterian church, when he spoke on "Possibilities of Peace Today" before the Warren Rotary club, Monday noon, and declared that "The supreme power of America alone is enough to discourage any dictator to attempt war. Russia will go to any length to avoid an all-out war."

Taking steel production into consideration, Dr. Kistler said chances of war between the United States and Russia are about 35 for 145 against such a conflict. With oil as a factor, while Iran has oil for Russia, she has no tankers to transport it and will not start a war without oil.

"Take a world map, color all the troubled spots and you will find a lot of the world is still relatively peaceful," he said. "When you get jittery, remember that the United States Navy is stronger than all others combined and Russia knows it. We must get away from the negative feeling we have that the United States is 'going to the dogs.' The only foreseeable chance of another war is talking ourselves into it." He said he has great faith in the United Nations, that we are farther ahead in the UN in the same length of time than we were in formation of the Colonies. He said he believed peace in Korea is not far away, that few problems remain and these will soon be solved. He admonished that we must remain strong, expressed himself in favor of strong armament.

Dr. Kistler's closing story left a deep impression. He said two mountain climbers, an old hand and a novice, spent a night in the Alps and in the morning the younger man awakened with alarm when he heard the thunderous cracking of the ice, caused by the rays of the sun. "It isn't the end of the world," the old climber told him, "it is the dawn of a new day."

Dr. Kistler was introduced by President W. E. Lutz who also introduced a number of guests: Dr. Robert Steen, William E. Rice, H. W. Conarro, Tracy Greenlund, James Hayes, Ralph Sires, Dr. A. B. McCormick, Charles Patterson, USN, son of Rotarian Neil Patterson; Rotarian Ad Lyon, of Bradford; and two W. H. S. seniors, John Mangus and George Scallies.

INDUSTRY TO USE AN HOUR IN REBUTTAL

BULLETIN

Washington (P)—The administration told the Supreme Court today that the steel industry's fears of "irreparable injury" from government operation of the seized mills are "a lot of fantastic hogboggins." And, Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman said, the industry had "failed entirely" to show any irreparable injury will result. Perlman was winding up his plea for reversal of the decision by U. S. District Judge David A. Fine that President Truman's seizure of the mills was illegal.

Washington (P)—Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills were resumed before the Supreme Court at 11:03 a. m. EST today. The administration had 17 minutes remaining of the two and one-half hours allowed it to plead for reversal of the decision by U. S. District Judge David A. Fine that the seizure was illegal.

Counsel for the steel industry had reserved more than an hour for rebuttal.

The court listened—and asked questions—for more than three hours yesterday, during which:

John W. Davis, speaking for the steel industry, argued that President Truman had no authority to take over the steel mills. He called Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, nominal operator of the mills, "a mere trespasser."

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general and acting attorney general, contended that the President, under the Constitution, not only had the right—but the duty—to prevent a strike of 600,000 steelworkers in a demand for higher pay.

Perlman was on the receiving end of most of the questions asked by the nine justices.

The arguments, for the most part, had been made either in the lower courts or in the many briefs filed with the high court.

Davis argued that the steel mills (Turn to Page Five)

Hot Rod? No Indeed! It's Charlie Alpaugh Making Speed!

The usual invitation to County visitors to speak out was accepted at last night's meeting by James Valone.

"I am operator of a shoe business in Pennsylvania avenue east," said Mr. Valone. "and recently, when the fire truck dashed by, I noticed an old jalopy speeding after it. 'Why don't you take after that hot rod and arrest him?' I asked Patrolman Zerbo, who was inspecting meters. 'That's the fire chief!' said Zerbo.

"Now I ask you, gentlemen, don't you think the chief should be provided with a car which will get him to the fires quickly and safely?"

It was brought out that the speeding car is a Plymouth of ancient vintage, owned by the chief and maintained by the borough.

Residents of Warren Invited to Help Promote Summer Theater in Arena Style

Summer theater for Warren in the new arena style will become a reality this summer if the community supports the pre-season membership campaign which opens tomorrow. Two plays are planned for this summer by the newly created Arena Theater, a community organization using local talent under the direction of Richard Rapp.

Season tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow by many of Warren's leading business places and by a citizens committee composed of local theater enthusiasts. The Arena Theater leaders have established an all time low price for the season tickets in order that cost might not keep any resident from enjoying two evenings of unusual summer entertainment.

The season ticket costing only $1.20 will admit the holder to both productions. The first show chosen is the daddy of all the old fashioned melodramas, "East Lynne," and will play for three nights, starting Tuesday, July 8th in the YMCA Annex. The second show will open on August 5th and announcement of its selection will be made shortly.

Mr. Rapp is now in the process of casting "East Lynne" which requires five men and eight women. He would be very happy to receive calls from anyone in the county who would enjoy working in the summer theater program either on or off the stage. Rehearsals (Turn to Page Five)

Clarendon—The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Marshall Larsen Post 314, VFW, held its regular meeting in the IOOF hall, with a very good attendance. After reports had been presented by the various committees, plans were discussed for the annual Poppy Day sales and arrangements were made to have representation at the Council meeting in Bradford. Following other routine discussion, refreshments were served by the committee.

MANY CALLS

City police were recipient of many calls during the evening hours, mostly of the nuisance variety. A Fourth street resident, locked out of an apartment, called for police aid to get in. Officers were called to Water street when a drunken driver was reported. None was found. A prowler called came in from Madison avenue about 10:30 o'clock, and again no one was found. Another call from West Third where a car was backfiring and nearby residents thought shots were being fired. In addition, officers found several doors of business places unlocked during night patrols.

CARS COLLIDE

A two car collision took place at Market and Third at 7:45 a. m. today between cars operated by Mrs. Lorena See, 116 Grant street, and a station wagon owned by Walker Creamery Products Company and operated by Ralph Brown, 111 Center street. No one was injured. According to the police report, Mrs. See was driving north on Market street and made a left turn into Third, striking the station wagon, which was going south on Market street, on its left front corner. No estimate of the damage was made.

Electric Cooking is Clean

- ★ pots and pans stay bright and shining
- ★ kitchen walls keep free of stains
- ★ drapes and curtains stay color-bright

It's a fact — electric cooking can lessen your housework as it has for thousands. For flameless cooking is cleaner cooking!

Put an electric range in your kitchen and you'll notice a difference right away—you'll need to clean less often. Pots and pans stay spic'n span. Kitchen walls and windows need not be washed so often. Drapes, curtains and upholstery keep their freshness.

But cleanliness is only part of the electric cooking story. It's fast — as fast as any cooking method. It's accurate—you'll serve better tasting foods. And it's automatic! That means more free time.

Take the first step now toward an all-electric kitchen. Install an electric range.

Interesting Talk Is Delivered Before Presbyterian Men

Mixing a homey philosophy of realism, spiced with heights of eloquence and salted with realism, the Rev. Raymon M. Kistler held an audience of 130 men in rapt attention last night at the annual spring rally of the Presbyterian Men's group of the First Presbyterian church.

Speaking on the subject, "Men in Our Day," Dr. Kistler took a gentle poke at the thought that all men are bound to be leaders and advised his audience to be first re-nerved with faith in themselves as individuals; then to acknowledge a power higher than they and to hold their heads high, even though the going may be tough.

"Too many persons," he said, "are involved in techniques and they lose the reality of their religion. When the going gets tough, as it has been and will be, they have nothing to hang on to."

"So many of us have just enough Christianity to make us miserable," he added, and went on to say that were he to call for a show of hands of those present as to what they were actively doing for the church he wondered how many hands would be raised. Acknowledging that it was fine to write a check for the work of the church now and then, even admitting it was necessary, he brought out the point that we must have the imprint of the eternal God upon us to be really prepared for life, and recognize a power higher than ourselves to be sure of our life.

In concluding his talk he urged the members of the Presbyterian Men's Group not only to attend church but to do their civic duty in their community.

"These days are all right," he said in conclusion. "It is your contribution to your church and community that will keep it good—or make it bad!"

Nearly 130 members and guests attended the dinner and enjoyed the program which had been planned by T. H. Milenius, Fred Plummer and Robert Dietsch. Group singing was led by Robert Dietsch and the Chord Cadets, Warren's well liked Barber Shop Quartette, furnished a generous number of timely selections that were applauded and enjoyed.

Dr. Robert S. Steen, pastor of the First church, gave the invocation and Nat W. Drake, president of the Presbyterian Men, welcomed those present and generously thanked general chairman Ralph E. Sires and his committee for the part all had played in making the evening a success. Thanks were also extended to the Women's Society and Circle members who prepared and served the delicious dinner.

Mr. Drake told of several projects which the group had done or were still to do for the church and reminded his audience that the monthly meetings, held the second Sunday of every month, would be terminated for the summer months but would begin again in the fall. Present as guest and representative of the Erie Presbytery was the Rev. George F. Kerchner, stated clerk of the Presbytery.

at that time he had been playing the game for only a few months.

Nevertheless it wasn't difficult for him to see that declarer was trying to give up a trump trick in order to reach dummy. So East refused to win the trick.

Declarer was still far from beaten. He laid down the ace of clubs and followed with the king of clubs. If Hazen ruffed, the declarer would win any return, capture the jack of trumps, and enter dummy with the nine of trumps.

Beginner though he was at the time, Hazen could see declarer's plan. South obviously had only black cards left in his hand and was trying desperately to reach dummy. So Hazen refused to ruff the king of clubs.

And now declarer was washed up. There was just nothing he could do with his two low clubs. If he tried to ruff them in dummy, East would over-ruff. If he drew trumps, West would eventually win two club tricks.

South went wrong because he forgot that his opponents would surely block him if he made his plans crystal clear. The right plan for the hand is to ruff the first diamond and immediately lead the ace and king of clubs.

If both opponents follow, South can then draw trumps and give up one club at most. If an opponent ruffs the first or second club, South has a sure entry to dummy by means of the nine of spades.

HUMAN FACTOR CAN HELP YOUR BRIDGE

The trouble with certain bridge players is that they think only with their own brains. Sometimes it's more important to think with an opponent's brains.

Take today's hand, for example. South was brilliant—except that he forgot the human factor. South ruffed the opening diamond lead, cashed the ace of hearts, and then led the ten of spades. It was a splendid idea—as far as it went. He was willing to give up one trump trick to make sure of getting to dummy with the nine of spades. Then he would discard low clubs on the king and queen of hearts. When this hand was played, nearly 20 years ago, the East cards were held by Lee Hazen. Today Hazen is one of the best bridge players in the country, but

THE STEEL DISPUTE

In the steel dispute, according to James Marlow, Associated Press feature writer in Washington, the Supreme Court can do several things without deciding flatly or the basic question before it: The constitutional limits of a President. Marlow sizes the situation up in this manner:

Usually the court doesn't hand down a single, flat opinion on broad constitutional questions. Instead, it decides specific issues which may be part of a broad problem without running head-on into the problem itself.

For example, this court has handled case after case involving the wide question of segregation of Negroes. It has never ruled on whether segregation as a whole is good, bad, constitutional or unconstitutional.

It has ruled on specific examples of segregation brought before it. It has said Negroes must not be forced to ride in the rear of buses crossing state lines.

And it has so ruled that Negroes now are admitted to white graduate schools in the South without saying Negroes had to be admitted to white high and grammar schools. When it got a case involving graduate schools, it limited its ruling to graduate schools.

And, without giving an opinion of any kind, the court can send the steel dispute back to the U. S. Court of Appeals or even to District Judge David Pine for more arguments or findings. It was Pine who said the President exceeded his power in seizing the mills and ordered them given back.

If it wants to give an opinion, the court could do so quickly. Perhaps in days. Maybe in weeks. Or it could delay its opinion. If it was long delayed a steel settlement might then make an opinion unnecessary.

The problem that goes to the court as the heart of the steel dispute is this:

Does the President have special built-in but invisible powers giving him authority to seize private property when he says he is acting for the general welfare in an emergency?

Nothing in law or the Constitution says specifically he has such a right. At the same time, nothing in the Constitution says he doesn't.

VOLUNTEER DONORS NEEDED

Officials of the Warren County Chapter of the American Red Cross have issued an appeal for fifty volunteer blood donors to report to the Bloodmobile during its visit at headquarters tomorrow. This plea should not go unheeded.

Because of circumstances beyond control of the local Chapter and Bloodmobile committee the number of donors signed up for the visit was unexpectedly reduced Monday from the customary 200 or 225, to 125, mainly due to illness and other excuses. In order to make up for the reduction in prospects, it is necessary that at least fifty volunteers be secured.

The need for blood was never more urgent than at the present time. Every able bodied person who has not been a donor in any of the recent visits is urged to heed the appeal and plan to be a "volunteer donor" Wednesday.

If you can sign up for the visit get in touch with headquarters at 404 Market street. If that is not possible, just report some time between ten a. m. and two p. m.

News of the death of E. I. Glassman, former well known merchant, comes as a sad shock to his many friends and associates in Warren and vicinity. During his long and active business career he gave generously of his time and talent to aid others less fortunate than he. Kindly and considerate, he was admired by all with whom he came in contact. He possessed a happy outlook on life, and was perhaps one of the best read citizens in the area.

It will be good news to amusement lovers to learn that a summer theater for Warren in arena style is an assured fact. In this connection attention is called to the fact that a pre-season membership campaign opens tomorrow and every one in the borough and surrounding area will have an opportunity to help promote the activity by enrolling with the group sponsoring the same.

"Ridiculous! They Don't Know How to Vote"

Here And There

The McKean County contingent of safety patrol boys and girls who left Bradford Thursday night for a three-day visit at Washington, D. C., arrived in the nation's capital at 7:25 a. m. Friday. No car sicknesses were reported. The patrol units visited the Smithsonian Institute, Ford Theater where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, the Washington Monument, National Zoo, and after supper went to the National Guard Armory for the National Assembly. Saturday the Patrols participated in the annual School Patrol parade, and at 5:30 a number of the boys and girls appeared on television on Station WNEB-TV. They returned home late Sunday night, tired, very happy and much richer in experience and travel knowledge, especially about the national capital. The trip was made in buses furnished by the Warren City Lines.

Those canoeists observed looting on the south bank of the Allegheny river near the Glade bridge early Sunday afternoon were probably Olean Boy Scouts, members of the troop of the First Baptist church, who left that city about five p. m. Friday for a leisurely two-day voyage down the stream to this city. The kids used four canoes and were accompanied by their scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster. They camped on the way two nights, reaching here about noon Sunday, being met by parents and friends who helped them to return home by automobiles later in the day.

Dr. Raymon Kistler, president of Beaver College, Jenkintown, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church from 1921 to 1928, took time out during a busy visit to Warren to drop into the office for a chat Monday, between speeches. This gesture on the part of Dr. Kistler was greatly appreciated by the entire staff. Many of us who enjoyed the pleasure of his acquaintance when he was in charge of the local church thirty years ago, have had few opportunities to exchange pleasantries with him since, and it was a reunion that will long be remembered. We were interested in hearing about the Kistler family, and learned that the son and daughter are both married, and the good reverend and his estimable wife now have three grandchildren. It is rather interesting to note that Dr. Kistler was the speaker at the annual Memorial Day exercises held in Warren in May, 1922. We join with his many friends in expressing the hope that the former minister will soon again decide to come back and renew acquaintances.

Birthday greetings: Felicitations are extended today to our old friend Arch Bristow, the "sage of Gariand," J. A. Johnson, dean of haberdashers in and around Warren, his son Nelson, Walter C. Beck and Dr. C. H. VerMilyea, Warren county's number one aid to the stork. All will be blowing out candles Wednesday.

Among engagements listed for the popular Warren Boys Choir during the summer is a program to be sung at Erie, August 20th, in Gannon Auditorium, during the convention of the Pennsylvania State Elks Association. The Choir has also been engaged to participate in the Flag Day exercises of the Warren Lodge of Elks and will march in the parade preceding the program at War Memorial Field, at 5:30 o'clock in the evening of June 14th.

Man's Poetic Attitudes Gain Zeal in Disputed Case of Steel

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—While the April steel strike brought forth a lot of Fourth of July oratory on preserving Constitutional liberties, it also brought forth some spring poets.

Here's one sample, concocted by a defense agency bureaucrat, riding to work on a bus:

*'Tis said the nation's weal
Depends upon more steel
To build a strong defense against aggression:
It's scarcer far than gold,
Worth twice as much, we're told,
And mobilizers fight for its possession.
Yet if perchance there's found
One extra ounce or pound
Outside the CMP and all its quotas,
Don't pay the slightest heed—
More cars are what we need—
Just toss the bonus back to General Motors.*

Earl J. McGrath, U. S. Commissioner of Education, relates this experience from a recent international conference on education. A delegate from Egypt rose and addressed the meeting in faultless English.

Of the educators from 40 countries, all could speak one other language—except the Americans. There were five Americans at this conference. None had less than 19 years of formal education, and all held Ph. D. degrees. Yet not one of them could speak anything but English.

ARMY and Marines put on a backstage rubber over which outfit would maneuver at the atom bomb test to which reporters were invited.

Army chose to participate in the second test. Then when it was learned that the Marines would be in on the public test, Army brass protested and so got switched to the first maneuvers which would get the most news coverage.

Reshuffling of U. S. generals and diplomats in Paris and Tokyo has reunited some old pals.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, new supreme commander in Europe, and Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who stays on there as chief of staff, once had adjoining offices in the Pentagon. They were both deputies to Chief-of-Staff General Eisenhower, and they were in and out of each others' offices several times every day.

Gen. Mark Clark, new U. S. commander in Tokyo, and Robert D. Murphy, new U. S. ambassador to Japan, were on the secret submarine mission that went from England to Morocco early in the war, and first made contact with the French before the North African invasion.

The story hasn't been told before, but last October North Atlantic Treaty Organization military leaders had a several-hour scare that the Russians might be beginning an attack on the west.

Northeast of Hanover there is a salient where the Russian zone of East Germany protrudes into the British zone of West Germany. Russian fall maneuvers were on full scale.

In the British sector a tank radio sergeant who understood Russian was monitoring the Soviet tank battle orders. Suddenly he heard a command order given for a Red tank unit to advance into the salient and attack British positions across the line.

The British had already maneuvered into position to receive such an attack. It didn't come off. But NATO officials say it could come just like that.

GEORGE M. ROGERS
—George M. Rogers of Enterprise, Ore., a son of the late Ual E. Rogers, who lived at Pittsfield until his death in 1905, died in Enterprise, Saturday. George Rogers was a pioneer in game law enforcement there until his retirement a few years ago.

At the time of his death, Mr. Rogers was justice of the peace in Enterprise.

Besides his wife, Margaret, he is survived by two step-daughters, Mrs. Gerald Homan of Enterprise, and Mrs. Winston Leavens of Portland, Ore., and the following brothers: D. U. Rogers of Hubbard, Ohio; L. F. Rogers of Youngsville, Ore. If the deceased had lived until June he would have been 75 years of age.

Of the eighth generation in descent from James Rogers, who settled in Connecticut in 1635, George Rogers was a man of unimpeachable integrity and adhered rigidly to his convictions of right and duty.

JOHN LINDELL, SR.
Relatives here have received word that John Lindell, Sr., of Great Valley, N. Y., died yesterday in the Olean Hospital, where he had been a patient for only a few days. He had been in failing health, however, for several years.

At one time a resident of Ludlow, Mr. Lindell was always greatly interested in horses and was frequently a judge for the Lander and other community fairs in years past. Besides a number of cousins and other relatives in this immediate section, he leaves eight children in Great Valley and vicinity.

Services in his memory will be held at his home at 2:00 p. m. Wednesday, with interment following in Great Valley cemetery.

MILDRED LOUCKS
—Services were held at the Templeton Funeral Home at 2:30 p. m. Monday for Mrs. Mildred Loucks, 2 Park street, North Warren, who died on Friday. Miss Loucks was a member of Grace Methodist church and of the Goodwill Bible Class for many years and her husband, Mr. Loucks, was her pastor.

Warren Department Store Is Observing Its 56th Anniversary

Life begins at fifty-six, at least that is what the community is wishing for the Metzger-Wright Company, now fifty-six years old.

Starting business 56 years ago as Smart, Silverberg and Metzger, this firm began its retailing career in what was known at that time as the Hoffman Block which stood on the present site of the Kresge Company store. In 1900 Mr. Smart and Mr. Silverberg withdrew and C. E. Metzger took another partner. The firm became known as Metzger and Hogan. The store then operated two large rooms connected by an archway where the one and only cashier dispensed change for all the customers in her little booth. Another firm change was made in 1906 when Mr. Hogan withdrew and C. E. Metzger carried on with the firm being known as C. E. Metzger, Limited. It did a thriving business in those horse and buggy days as a "general" store. Each clerk sold all over the store instead of specializing in one department. Many of the customers and clerks of those days are patrons of the store today.

In 1917, W. W. Wright became a partner in the business and the store again changed its name to Metzger-Wright Co. In 1919 the store merged with the C. H. Smith Co. and occupied both corner buildings. In 1923 Mr. Smith's holdings were purchased by Mr. Wright and Mr. Metzger and a group of Warren stockholders.

In March 1948, the Metzger-Wright Company was purchased by one of the nation's largest retail merchandise concerns, the Allied Stores Corporation. The buying power of this large organization was made available to Metzger-Wright's, which is evident in the outstanding values and savings found today at this store.

Warren's leading department store, which will celebrate its 56th birthday with a large Anniversary Sales event starting Thursday, May 15th.

Residents of Warren Invited to Promote Theater will be kept to a minimum and the plays are being chosen to provide the most enjoyment to both the audience and the cast.

The YMCA annex was selected for the site of the new theater because of its central location and the many facilities there. There are over 200 new and comfortable chairs at the annex and the stage will be elevated so that everyone can see the action with no difficulty. And if the summer evenings are hot and humid, the annex has the added convenience of being air cooled. The refreshment stand will be open also and will be operated by members of the youth canteen for their own profit.

The following places have season tickets on sale starting tomorrow: Style Shop, United Cigar Store, B and B Smoke Shop, Geracimos, Biokarck's Music Store, Tiny Town, WNAE, Tranters Grocery in Venturatown, Lyle Schuler in Youngsville, and the Sheffield Observer.

The tickets will be left on sale for one week during which time the committee hopes 500 season members can be enrolled, thus assuring the success of the project for the first season of operation. Single admission tickets to the individual plays will be sold at the door but at a higher price than that paid for the season tickets.

The two shows to be presented this summer will be a new addition to the recreational and cultural life of the community and the Arena Theater organizers have had wonderful cooperation from interested persons so far in the planning of the coming season. Many persons have called the director to volunteer their services and express interest in acting in the company.

Many of the older residents of the community are recalling when East Lynne was the hit of the theater circuits and are eagerly awaiting its revival in a new and streamlined version by the local theater group some thirty years since it was a popular hit. Those who have read the play and are active in producing it this summer declare that it is even funnier now than it was in the good old days.

"Those who occupy office under the government, however lofty, are still servants with limited duty and power."

Perman said Davis had made "an eloquent argument designed to turn the minds of the court away from the facts in this case."

Fortune Is Found in Bloomers and Hosiery

Chicago (P)—A fortune in cash and securities, all tied up in pink bloomers, stockings and a pillow case, was found yesterday in a safe deposit box owned by an 85-year-old widow who died five months ago.

Officials representing various public agencies found currency—in $1 to $500 bills—totaling $120,712 in the bloomers and stockings. The money in the pillow case will be counted Thursday.

The safe deposit box was rented to the late Mrs. Cora Draper in 1915. Before she died last Dec. 9 she executed a will leaving virtually all her estate, estimated at $300,000, to her attorney, Pierre J. Pelouquin.

Government Action On Flood Control Is Urged by Eagles

A plea for rapid and direct governmental action in handling the problem of flood control was voiced last night by Conewango Aerie 318 Fraternal Order of Eagles, according to an announcement by Francis Gilson, worthy president.

The Aerie adopted a resolution asking the federal government to set up a flood control commission, composed of experts in the field, whose sole duty it would be to survey flood problems in various parts of the country and make recommendations for proper procedure.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to Senator James Duff and Edward Martin, as well as Representative Leon Gavin, Mr. Gilson said.

The local Aerie has been asked by the grand worthy president, William Wetherald, of Zanesville, Ohio, to assist the campaign to combat floods. The Grand Aerie passed the resolution urging the establishment of a Government Flood Control Commission, and subordinate Aeries were asked to place their approval on similar resolutions.

"No one is safe from floods," Mr. Gilson said. Floods effect the economy of the country in many ways, and unless there is a standardized program for stopping these tragedies, we shall pay and pay. The establishment of such a commission could save hundreds of millions of dollars every year. In addition, the farms and our homes and our lives would be safer."

future connections to the borough sewer system by property-owners outside the borough lines. It was declared that the present charge is inadequate for the service rendered and that no matter how much it be increased, the sewer system is not equipped to handle an extra load.

Under a suspension of rules, Council passed on its third and final reading an ordinance to accept Wilson street, from West street westerly 172.65 feet, as a borough street, and also under rules suspension voted to extend the sanitary sewer on Wilson street westerly 125 feet from the present sewer, bids to be asked or the work to be done by the borough.

After considerable discussion of recommendations made by Chairman Smith of the public safety committee, Council approved his motion that the traffic light at Pennsylvania avenue and Franklin street be moved to Pennsylvania avenue and Elm street, that a new light and control be installed at Conewango avenue and McPherson street, and that two new lights and controls be installed at Pennsylvania avenue and Parker street.

Acting on a request from C. C. Winans, president of the Warren Board of Health, Council voted to revise the "milk ordinance" for the borough to bring it up to date. Action to prohibit the sale of raw milk and raw cream within the borough was delayed pending investigation, the Board of Health to be asked for its reasons in making the request.

Y-Teens Entertain 300 at Their Annual Mother-Daughter Banquet-Program

Carrying out a spring theme of butterfies, flowers and pastel streamers, the Y-Teen department of the YWCA entertained 300 persons in the activities building last evening for the annual mother-daughter banquet.

Tables were decorated with gay colored candles, with large ribbons tied around them, and bouquets of lilacs and sweet peas. Lapel pins of butterfies, and programs in the shape of butterfly nets, were at each place. Pastel colored streamers and butterfly brightened the ceiling and walls and a large sign "In Honor of the Best Mother in the World... My Mom" decorated one wall and expressed to all the mothers the whole purpose of the banquet.

Mrs. Dorothy Collins, program director of the YW, was toastmaster for the program, which included an invocation by Ann Rydholm; Toast to the Mothers by Sally Reed and presentation of gifts to Mrs. Collins on behalf of the H.S.G.C.; Toast to the Daughters, Mrs. Elaine Rader.

The Y-Teen Choir, under the direction of Jane Sanford and accompanied by Mrs. Carl Whipple, sang several numbers. The dramatic group, under the direction of Charlotte Smith, presented a play, "Make Up and Live." The next number was a skit telling all the details of the Y-Teen Camp written and directed by Kay Costley.

This was followed by a Style Show with Carol Somers and Gladys Hengst as leaders. The script was written and presented by Nan Hetherington with Betty Lee's furnishing the clothes for the occasion. The girls thank Millie Dendix for all the help she gave them in selecting the clothes and Metzger-Wright's for use of the lawn furniture as a setting for the show, as well as J. A. Veinilys for the use of the equipment for the setting.

The following guests were present at the program and were introduced by Mrs. Collins to the mothers: Ruby Babcock, Dorothy Lee, Helen Pettit and Pao Christensen, all Y-Teen leaders; May Belle Earls and Lee Ensworth from the YW board, and Janet Cannon.

The concluding part of the program was the installation of next year's officers of the H.S.G.C. The new officers were kept a secret until the moment they were installed. At this time the retiring officers called the new officers forward and presented them with a red rose. The new officers are: President, Sally Tome; vice president, Patty Harrington; secretary, Pat Pastick; treasurer, Joyce Chapman; and chaplain, Marilyn Smith. The retiring officers are, in order, Sally Reed, Ann Rydholm, Sally Tome, Fran Gruttaria, and Roseann Germon.

The next big event for the Y-Teens will be camp at Newtash on Lake Chautauque. Dates for this year's camp are June 15-22. The cost is small for each Y-Teen. Girls will register at the YW in the near future, and further information may be obtained at the YW desk or by calling 450.

Annual Dinner-Installation Is Feature Of Final Community PTA Gathering

One of the most important and enjoyable affairs of the Community PTA Council's calendar for the year just concluding was the annual dinner, election of officers and their installation in the high school cafeteria last evening.

Tables were beautifully arranged, with large centerpieces of lilacs and apple blossoms, and long tapers for candlelight. Mrs. Henry Long, vice president, was chairman of the dinner plans, with Carl E. Whipple, school superintendent, giving the invocation.

Business of the evening was conducted by the council president, Mrs. A. Roger Olson, who first introduced the honor guests, Mrs. Gerald Archibald and Mrs. Philip Homan, retiring and new Council presidents; incoming presidents of local units, and others.

Gunther Thiel, German educator studying education in this country, spoke very favorably for Warren and the PTA.

Mrs. Archibald reported on her recent trip to Edinburgh as County and Community Council representative in the interests of child welfare, stressing the importance of the school library and emphasizing the thought that politics should not be an issue when considering the child's welfare.

A letter was read from Mrs. A. J. Nicely, Erie, state program chairman, complimenting the council for presenting a play at the district conference held recently, a feature which added much to the success of that session. Mrs. C. O. Gay, Mrs. Norman A. Johnson and David Olson were thanked for their presentation of the play.

State Vice President Whipple complimented the council and all the units for their splendid work during the past year and, while installing the new officers, brought out the fact that the PTA is the "largest organized volunteer group of individuals in the world with one primary object, the betterment of our boys and girls; that the PTA, working for better trained leaders and better citizens among youth, is greater than any other international group."

Those installed were: Mrs. A. Roger Olson, president; Mrs. C. O. Gay, first vice president; Mrs. Henry Long, second vice president; James Francis, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Francis, treasurer.

Mrs. C. O. Gay introduced the speakers for the evening, their theme being "Our Schools' Part in a Healthy Community Life."

Dr. T. H. Gettings, Youngsville, explained the physical examination of pupils relative to protection of individuals, schools and community, mentioning the various types of exams given and instances where parents are notified that corrections were their responsibility.

Joseph Massa took as his theme, "Don't Make Excuses, Make Good!" giving statistics which showed more students are participating in health-building athletics than are not; also that health is being stressed more each year. He brought out the fact that since 1912, when J. B. Laidig came to Warren, the community has had the highest rating and strictest rules to maintain its supremacy among other schools in athletics.

He pointed out that "attitudes are better taught than caught" and stressed the fact that the majority of teachers, especially those teaching athletics, do not smoke or drink and the majority of teachers provide a healthful environment in the classrooms. However, he admonished, the school alone cannot mold the health and character of the student. It is the parents' primary responsibility, and an educated person is one who maintains basic health rules.

VFW Auxiliary Plans For Annual Poppy Day Sales

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Dinsmore-Schwinn Post 631, VFW, held a busy session in the post rooms for the regular meeting. Plans were made for the annual Poppy Day sales, May 16-17, with President Bessie Sullivan appointing Martha Schuelz as chairman to work with Charles Johnson, post chairman. Members of the auxiliary, with several young people, will be on the streets of the business section early morning to conduct the poppy sales and it is hoped they will be well patronized.

A donation was voted toward gifts for two young people from this district who are graduating from the Scotland School this year.

THEY used to say molasses is a good spring tonic. Now that spring is here, let's try this "tonic" in two special meat dishes.

Kidney Bean and Ham Pie (6 servings)

Two No. 300 cans red kidney beans (4 cups), 1 1/2 cups cooked ham, cut in small pieces, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1/2 teaspoon chili powder, 3 tablespoons unsulphured molasses, pastry, using 2 cups flour.

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. (hot). Combine beans, ham, seasonings and molasses; pour into a 10-inch pie pan, lined with unbaked pastry. Roll remaining pastry into a circle, 1/4-inch thick, from which cut 6 pie-shaped wedges. Arrange pastry wedges over bean and ham mixture; seal edges to bottom crust and flute. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is brown.

Beefsteak Roll-Ups in De Luxe Tomato Sauce (6 servings)

One 6-ounce can tomato paste, 1 cup water, 3 tablespoons unsulphured molasses, 2 tablespoons cider vinegar, 1/4 cup chopped onion, 1/4 cup chopped green pepper, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon oregano, 1 pound round steak, cut in thin slices, 1/4 pound strong cheddar cheese.

Mix tomato paste, water, molasses, vinegar, onion, green pepper and seasonings in a saucepan; cook slowly until thick. Pound each slice of steak until it is about 1/4-inch thick; cut into 12 pieces, 3 to 4 inches square and sprinkle lightly with salt. Place a 3 x 1/2 x 1/2-inch piece of cheese in center of each meat square; roll up and hold in place with toothpick. Brown on all sides in a little hot fat; simmer 10 minutes in tomato sauce. Serve with rice, noodles or spaghetti.

Hamburger Roll-Ups (6 servings)

Replace beefsteak, in the above recipe, with 1 pound ground beef, seasoned with 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/2 teaspoon mustard and 1/2 teaspoon black pepper. Pat into ten 4 x 1 1/2 x 1/2-inch squares. Proceed as in above recipe.

TOMORROW'S MENU

One-Run Decisions Coveted by League Leaders This Year

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer

Know what's keeping Cleveland, Washington, Brooklyn and the New York Giants at or around the top in the major league standings? Ability to win the close ones.

There's an old baseball adage that the team capturing the most one-run decisions usually wins the flag. That has been true down through the years. One of the reasons the Giants edged the Dodgers for the National League pennant last year was because they had a 34-21 record in one-run decisions to Brooklyn's 31-23 mark.

A check of this year's figures show that the Dodgers and Senators own the best record in close contests. Each club is runner-up in their respective leagues. The league-leading Giants and Indians are second in the one-run department.

Appropriately enough, Pittsburgh's cellar-dwelling Pirates in the National have dropped all four of their one-run decisions. The sixth-place White Sox, with a 3-6 record, own the poorest mark in the American.

The next two weeks will tell whether Washington in the American and Chicago and Cincinnati in the National, the three current surprise clubs, are really improved over last year or are mere morning glories.

All three will be on the road. The Cubs and Reds, tied for third place, invade the East tonight. Yesterday's only scheduled game, the Phils at Brooklyn, was called because of cold and wet grounds.

YESTERDAY'S SPORTS

New York—The New York Yankees optioned Third Baseman Andy Carey and Pitcher Art Schallack to Kansas City of the American Association, subject to 24-hour recall. Tom Morgan, Yankee pitcher, passed his Army physical examination.

Washington—The Washington Senators traded Second Baseman Gass Michaels to the St. Louis Browns for Pitcher Lou Sleater and Infielder Freddie Marsh.

Boston—The Boston Red Sox purchased Catcher Del Wilber from the Philadelphia Phillies.

Castellani - Graham Match on Friday Is Bout Rocky Wanted

New York (AP)—It took seven years but now Rocky Castellani wants to be a busy fighter.

Since 1946, the Luzerne, Pa., youngster has been spacing his fights—five or six to a year. He's been treading water in the middleweight division, going nowhere fast.

Rocky lost his manager in January when the New York State Athletic Commission revoked Tommy Ryan's license for his assault on Referee Ray Miller.

Tex Sullivan, last associated with Lee Oms, took over the Rocky's contract.

"How come you're always laying off?" asked Sullivan. "What's the matter. Why don't you keep on fighting?"

"Nothing's the matter," said Rocky. "I can't understand it. Unless I get a cut eye or something like that. I want to keep going every week or two."

With the small indoor arenas closing down, fights were tough to get. So Castellani went to the gym, waiting for Sullivan to land the match he always wanted—Billy Graham. They finally meet Friday in a televised Madison Square Garden ten.

Revolver League To Shoot in Bradford

All members of the Warren Revolver League are requested to meet at the State Armory at 7 o'clock sharp tomorrow night, when they will journey to Bradford to meet the revolver league there. So far the Warren league has a 1-2 record with out-towners.

Elk Bowlers Hold Annual Dinner and Elect New Officers

Officers for the coming season were elected at the annual dinner and meeting of the F. Bowling League held last evening with about 225 in attendance. They include Tom Conway, president; Harry Wooster, vice president; Howard Johnson, secretary, and William Bunk, treasurer.

The former committee, consisting of Franklin Riggs, president, with Wooster, Conway and Bunk, was given a rising vote of thanks for their efforts in making the past season one of the most successful in the history of the league.

Ruel H. Smith was toastmaster for the program that followed the serving of a delectable turkey dinner prepared by the Lewis caterers and served by the house committee under the chairmanship of Myron Check. Dr. D. A. Smith gave the invocation.

Past Exalted-Ruler L. M. White-shot opened the meeting and extended a welcome to all present. Congratulations were heaped upon the bowling committee and lodge officers.

The toastmaster with appropriate remarks for the captain and individual members presented suitable awards to the Solar Electric team consisting of J. Allen, M. Ostergard, C. Blackman, Dr. W. Sedwick and R. Wilder. Prizes were also given to Bob Check for high average of 181; Myron Check for high individual game of 258, and Carl Jensen for high three games of 618. It was also announced that Turner's had high three-game total of 2644.

Roland Harvey was presented a "scroll" in recognition of the fact that he had the highest number of splits in a single game, the toastmaster announcing that the record was hung up in the roll-offs when he had seven clean splits following two spares.

Ed Lowrey, chairman of the Flag Day Committee, explained briefly plans for the parade on Saturday, June 14, and appealed for whole-hearted cooperation on the part of all members to make the event a success.

The three trustees of the lodge, A. A. Albaugh, F. C. Ostergard and H. J. Harvey were all called upon to take a bow. Franklin Riggs, retiring president, was presented an Elk emblem.

After a brief intermission following the banquet a floor show was presented that was much enjoyed by the bowlers and guests. Music for the event was furnished by the Jordan orchestra. The fine work of the house committee came in for a share of praise. Those who helped to serve were Myron Check, chairman, Franklin Burman, Glenn Grosch, Clifford Graham, F. Beyer and Dick Hines.

Oil City Meet To Be Held Thursday

After a telephone conversation, this morning, between J. B. Leidig, Warren High School director of athletics, and Oil City Coach John Kauffman, the track meet originally scheduled at Oil City for this afternoon was postponed to Thursday.

This meet will get underway at 3:40 p. m. at Mitchell Field.

According to Coach Kaufman, Oil City has had four days of rain and the track is in too poor condition for a meet.

Rizzuto, Robinson Lead Batting List

New York (AP)—Two veteran "money players," shortstop Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees and second baseman Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn Dodgers, top the American and National League batting derbies today.

Rizzuto, last of the Yankee "old guard," and Robinson each enjoys a seven-point lead. Rizzuto is hitting .351, and Robinson .393.

Through The Wind Tunnel

Bill Massa says the Pirates are like nylon stockings - no runs!

Wilder Field is one of the prettiest spots in the county right now.

Our thanks to Ray Eckhardt for a beautiful hand-painted cup and saucer. The saucer measures eight inches across, the cup almost five inches and holds about a quart. "I am not greedy—but I like a lot" is inscribed in gold on the cup. It's a real antique.

The Dragons should be well represented at District 10 track and field meet in Erie Saturday with the record breaking squad they have, and have a fine chance of being represented at the State meet at Penn State on May 24. Rod Morley, a junior on this year's team, went to the finals in 1951.

Likely contenders from Warren are Sam DeLoe, 440, Morley, 880; Max Krespan, mile run; and the half-mile relay teams. All are undefeated in five meets. Warren doesn't have too much to offer in the field events. Their biggest mainstay is Ben Pastrick, who has won four out of five meets in the shot put, twice in the discus and once in the javelin. Dick Hegerty would be a strong contender in the broad jump.

Last Friday Dick Hegerty out-jumped Donnie Bird's 19-5 in the broad jump ½ of an inch, but fouled out to make it void.

Bats and Balls to be Issued At Hot Stove Meeting Tonight

All team handlers and managers are especially urged to be present tonight, when the Hot Stove League committee meets at 9 o'clock in the Trinity Memorial Parish House. The reason is that bats and balls will be handed out and as this will be done only at league meetings, it is important that these persons attend.

Not counting the three Youngsville teams, the league numbered 53 teams with 790 players at last Tuesday's session, and the complete assignment of sponsors should be finished at this meeting. Roger Hendrickson, financial secretary, has been in charge of this phase of the program.

The equipment committee should have made a check on the outside still on hand from last year by tonight, to know what purchases are necessary for functioning this season.

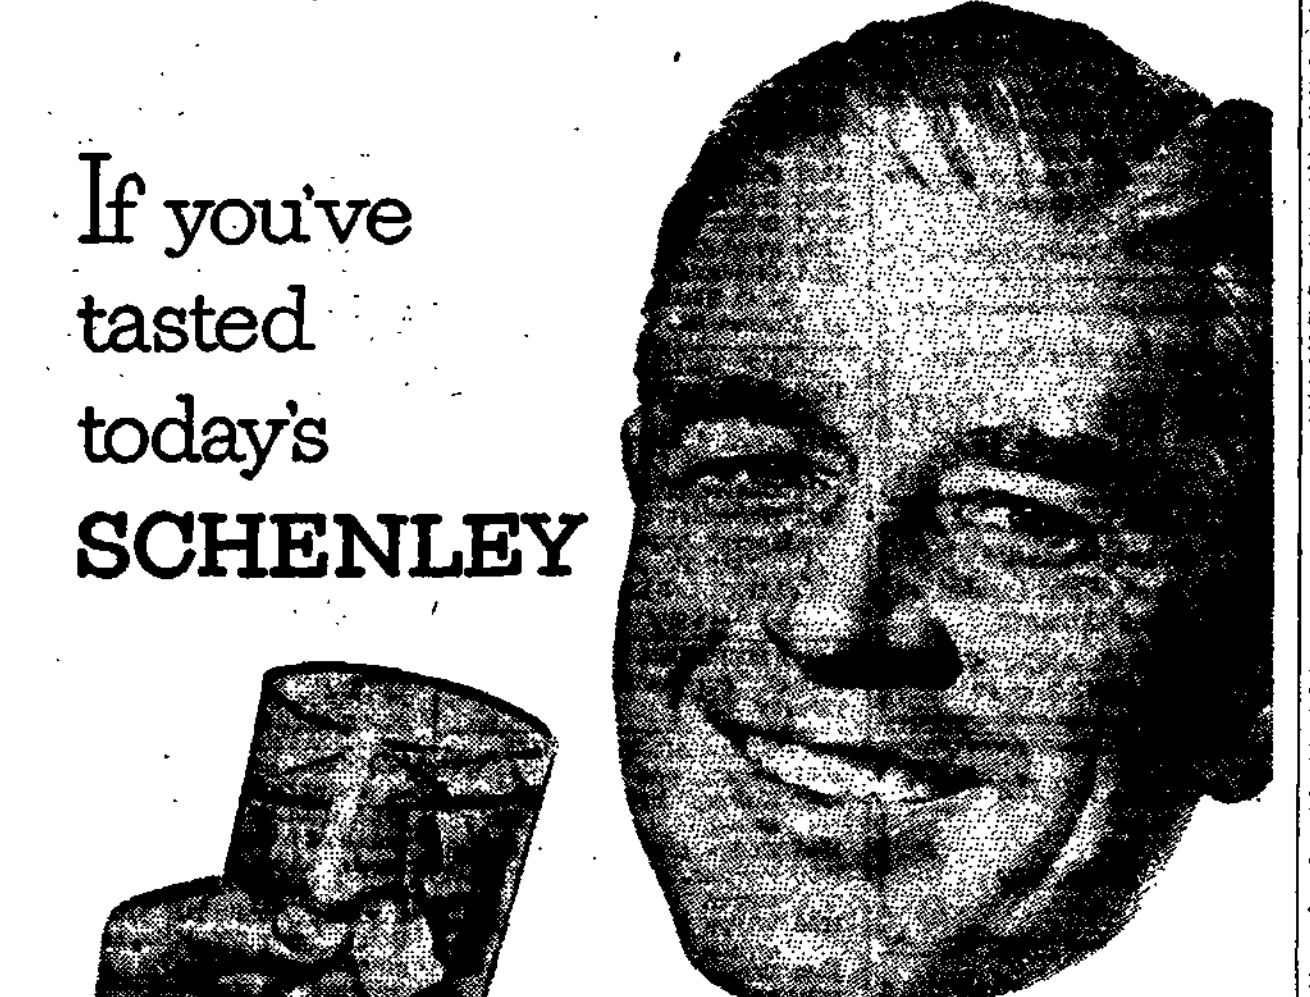

Industrial Softball Rosters Due Tonight

Temporary rosters of the four teams making up the Industrial Softball League are to be turned in tonight, when managers and interested members meet at 7:30 in the Emblem Oil East Side Station. This meeting will also be the last chance for any other teams to enter the league, which is now comprised of four teams, Emblem Oil, Guifre Grocery, Sylvania and Thomas Coupling.

The season will open Monday, May 19, with Guifre's and Sylvania meeting on the West Side Field, and on Tuesday, May 20, Emblem and Thomas Coupling tangle at the State Hospital softball diamond.

Providing weather conditions permit, there will be a practice softball game between the Phalanx and Guifre's Grocery at 8:30 on the Beatty Municipal Field.

Senior pupils of ninth through 12th grades will continue coming from Farmington next year and an additional teacher will be named to the faculty. Improvements were again discussed, the president to appoint a planning committee for each of the three schools. It was reported to the board the work on the track is progressing and the area will be ready for seeding early this week. This work has all been done by volunteer labor, it was stated.

DOOMROCK BY ARCHIE JOSCELYN

Chapter 21

RUTCH HOCTOR had already paid dividends—more as a dead man than he ever was worth alive, to the mind of Matt Tarson. Now Matt figured to collect an added chunk of interest.

To that end, he contrived, just before his death, with a carefully mixed company of riders from several outfits, to come upon the dead man, still swaying gently in the breeze.

They cut Hoctor down and tied him across a saddle, faces turning black. Matt summed it up briefly:

"He came in and reported to us, yesterday, how Russell and some of his crew tried to lynch him on a trumped-up charge of rustling. And would have, only Russell's wife come on them at the job and made them turn him loose. Looks like they snuck around and finished the job, first chance they got—caught him off here alone."

That inference of having done the deed the cowardly way, when they had been afraid to do it before witnesses, had its calculated effect. He went on grimly:

"I don't like sneaks—any way you look at them. If anybody figures they're short some cattle, the thing to do is come to me—in the open, and say what they think. Nobody's done that."

Again he was silent, waiting for the obvious implication to strike home. Then he swung his horse abruptly.

"We'll do this in the open," he added. "Take him to them, and see what they have to say."

NIGHT of a large group of men bunched near the chuck wagon gave him a momentary unease. He had expected to find them widely scattered about their work, but fully a score of men were in one group, as many as could be spared from holding the cattle. They looked up and watched in silence as Matt and his riders approached.

"Talk of the devil," Quentin, of the Fishhook, big jaw sunk in a heavy black beard which swept his chest, muttered, and he said it loudly enough that everyone heard.

All eyes had swung to the burden on the horse. But the silence continued, no one exclaiming, asking questions or manifesting open curiosity.

"We found Hoctor, swingin' from a tree," Matt Tarson announced, and kept his saddle, glaring down. "And that's something I don't like!"

"You'd like it less if it had been your neck," Quentin muttered. But it was Kriebes of the Rocking Chair who made the real, if oblique, answer.

"There's something here that we don't like, either," he grunted. "There's a cow off there, with the Diamond R. And a calf followin' her, branded with the Noose. We all had a look."

Matt stiffened. That must be the same cow and calf which Hoctor had tried unsuccessfully to dispose of. But Kriebes disabused him of that notion in the next breath.

"It ain't the same pair that he as tryin' to chouse back in the hills, yesterday," he explained, with a nod toward the dead man. "We know about that. Accidents like those brands might happen—once. When they do it twice, it ain't no accident."

Coldness ran in Matt. Who would be such a fool as to elap a Noose brand on a calf while it was still running with a Diamond R cow?

Tarson glanced toward the dead man, and silently cursed his own luck. But for his own loud mouth when they had cut Hoctor down, he could blame it all on him now, even virtuously take credit for having strung him up when his duplicity was discovered. But he'd championed Hoctor before men of other outfits, and he was bound by those words.

"That so?" he asked, and fought to keep his voice even. This was one time when he must tread cautiously. "Well, I'm not much surprised."

"We didn't think you would be," Quentin muttered.

"I'm not, and I'll tell you why," Tarson lounged in the saddle. "It's all a piece with Hoctor being hung. Somebody's stealin' every big out fit blind, and tryin' to cover up by such sneakin' tricks as that—doing damn fool things that no real rustler would think of. If we can be made to fight each other, then he can operate that much easier."

Kriebes spat. "Since when has the Noose been losin' cattle?" he challenged. "I been noticin' pretty careful, this round-up. The Diamond R. is mighty short on its tally—but I never saw a bigger calf crop than wears your brand, Tarson. Every cow you own, must have had twins."

Rage built in Tarson, but he choked it down. The odds were too one-sided.

"Are you accusin' me of something?" he demanded.

"We don't aim to do nothing on the spur of the moment," he said. "This is too serious for that. But there's been a lot of thievery going on in this range for a long spell, and we're going to put a stop to it. Right now, we're too busy to handle this proper. We'll finish the round-up. Then we'll meet as a Cattleman's Court and see what we find. You're on notice now, and that's fair to everybody."

The chill of apprehension struck deeper in Matt. Cattleman's Court! They would dig deep for real evidence, considering it fairly, with complete lack of bias. That was the trouble. He'd figured, if anything did develop, that it would go through the regular channels of the law at the court at Alderington. If it ever got that far, it would get no farther. The district judge was a friend of his, a man who would see to that.

"After the round-up, eh?" he agreed. "That suits me fine. I'll be ready when you are."

Matt Tarson swung his horse, leading the laden cayuse, heading back toward his own range. He noted that only the two men who took his pay continued to ride with him. The others who had been with him at the discovery remained behind.

DOOMROCK BY ARCHIE JOSCELYN

Chapter 22

IMMEDIATELY the conference was concluded, Steve headed for home, heading Matt McKee to ride with him. It had been McKee who had discovered this second cow and calf, and called it to the attention of the whole bunch of men. Their action of calling a Cattleman's Court was better than Steve had expected.

But with ruin staring him in the face, as the increasing tally of the round-up came in, it might be too late in any case. That was one worry. The other, which nagged even more insistently, was Melody. He had let her ride away this morning with the gulf widening between them.

His hand touched the hard lump against his chest, and he smiled bitterly. Doomrock! It looked as if it might be known what he was talking about. It was like an ever-increasing weight, a millstone hung about his neck. For a moment he considered throwing it away, then shrugged the notion aside.

McKee rode in silence, respecting Steve's obvious wish to be left alone. It was not until they reached the barn and were stripping the saddles from their horses that Steve turned to him, in the quietude of the silence, and shadows of the big building.

"Tye got a new job for you, Burt," he said. "You'll start first thing in the morning. I've had word from the round-up boss, over at Passover Ford. There's a head of our stock have strayed there."

"I need the money, and there'll be a cattle buyer over there. So sell what there are, regardless of age, and bring the money back. I'll be maybe four or five thousand dollars, enough that it can make all the difference in saving the ranch."

"Sure, I'll tend to it," McKee agreed readily. "I'll head off south when I start, just in case any body's interestin'."

"That's fine," Steve said absently.

HE entered the house, his step echoing hollowly. Where was Melody, Steve wondered.

He heard her step then, quick and brisk at the outer door, and went to meet her. The next moment, without words, she was in his arms.

"Oh, Steve!" she said. "You did come! I hoped you would. I was out on the hillstop there, watching. But you swung in from the other way."

In his relief at having matters right between them, Steve was not thought to her words. But there had come straight in from the round-up.

Steve's spirits revived. With Melody on his side, he could lick the world.

She stood to watch him ride away the next morning, back to work. Almost hesitantly then, she turned her steps toward the bunk house, where only one man put-tered about today, Linny. Melody came straight to the point.

"Colonel Dupray," she said sharply, "said you would be trustworthy, in case I should want any messages delivered."

"I have a letter here. Please take it to Mr. Felix Tarson. Be sure to give it to him, and to no one else."

A few minutes later, from the house, Melody watched him vanish with his horse over the hill-top.

Linny rode steadily, with the assurance of a man who knows where he is going. He was in no way disconcerted when, a couple of hours later, he was accosted by Matt Tarson and a couple of his more faithful henchmen.

"You looking for me?" he asked.

Linny shook his head.

"Not exactly," he denied. "I got a letter here—but with instructions to give it to Felix, personal."

"Who gave it to you?" Matt demanded.

"Miss Russell."

"Let's have a look at it," Unhesitatingly, Linny handed it over.

Matt ripped it open, his jaw justing. He scanned the message briefly.

"Dear Mr. Tarson," it ran. "I am sending this by the man Linny, as Colonel Dupray suggested that he was trustworthy. Burt McKee is heading for Passover Ford, and the round-up there. He will sell Diamond R cattle and bring back the money."

"If the money was delayed in reaching home, it might further interest me. I am sure that I can depend on you to see that no harm befalls Mr. McKee, and that the loss of the money is only temporary."

The letter was unsigned, but it was clear enough.

Matt crumpled the letter in his hand and tossed it carelessly aside.

"I'll handle it, Linny," he agreed.

MATT felt a savage satisfaction that the message had fallen into his hands, not those of his brother. Felix was acting strangely of late. At a time when direct, relentless action was called for, he seemed inclined to doubt even the measures which he himself had helped to initiate.

No such doubts assailed Matt. There was a job to do, and he had been busily about it for several hours. During the night, accompanied by his henchmen, he had made three calls, riding masked. Calls on three of the smaller, more isolated outfits.

At two of them, warnings had been left—reminders that the Noose could be a good friend or a bad enemy. With a postscript added to the scrawled message in both cases.

"Trenouth made the wrong choice!"

They had taken direct action at Trenouth's place. By the time he and his single hired man had awakened, to stumble out into the crimson-tinted night, their barn and house alike had been wrapped in flames. The two had barely had time to escape with their lives.

Tonight, with the placing of another half-score of warnings, the seed of fear would be well planted, watered by a dash of terror.

Matt swung to one of his companions.

"Burt McKee is headin' for Passover Ford," he said. "He'll sell the Diamond cattle there and head back with the cash—several thousand dollars. Nobody's supposed to know. You sashay over there, Wesson. And see that he don't get back. Tend to it after he gets the cash."

"I'll tend to it," Wesson agreed. He dismounted to tighten his cinch. Casually, finding his employer's observation elsewhere, he bent and picked up the crumpled piece of paper which Matt had tossed to the wind. Then, nodding, he mounted and swung his horse to the north.
